DAMAGE SUIT
BEING HEARD

MARTINEZ, Oct. 30. The $10,500 automobile collision injury suit filed by J. F. Cannon against Laura McCrary went to trial in Superior Judge A. F. Bray's court today after a jury was chosen this morning.

Attorney James P. Hoey of Martinez represents Cannon while Jesse Nichols of Oakland and T. M. Carlson and Robert V. Collins of Richmond are defense attorneys.

Cannon claims he suffered a severe injury and concussion of the brain June 21, 1935 when an automobile he was driving collided with one driven by McCrary at San Pablo and Alameda avenues, Richmond.

Babcock clearly indicated his belief that the 74-year-old former state cashier was "sobering up" for some other official.

He tried desperately to force an admission from Shearer that his story that Treasurer Charles G. Johnson covered losses in state funds because of friendliness to Shearer, appeared improbable.

BLAKE JOHNSON

"Do you think any man would give 25,000 at one time, $650 more for his without wanting something in return?" asked the prosecutor.

"My God man, even you can see what the court will do to your confession."

"Your wife, your brother Allen and your friends are working with me in this case," continued Babcock in a quiet tone. "They blame Johnson for your predicament. They say you are covering up. They all told me Bill will tell you the truth, and by the Lord Harry you certainly aren't."

WANT TRUTH

"I want the truth. I tell you now that you are in a bad spot. The State of California has been doing good to you. Why don't you make clean and prove the state didn't mislead its trust in you and your ability?"

Shearer reiterated his statement, made yesterday, that he didn't want to answer all the questions put to him.

"I'll tell everything when I go back to Sacramento," he pleaded with the attorney.

LID BLOWN OFF

The shortage in the accounts of an employee of the State treasurer's office has resulted in some interesting revelations concerning the conduct of other State departments.

Although the amount missing is insignificant in comparison with the hundreds of millions handled annually, the disclosure that there has not been a real audit of the books of various officials for several years is rather disquieting.

It is a lax way of doing business and no firm or corporation would countenance it.

Our county books are audited annually, not with the thought that thievery will be disclosed, but as a safeguard against the mishandling of funds. It is a preventive measure and experience has demonstrated, is well worth the money it costs.

The governor has awakened to the fact that there are things in our governmental affairs which need straightening out. State officials have lapsed in the habit of using official cars for private purposes and pleasure. At a recent football game over 150 state autos were parked behind the grandstand at the Berkeley stadium, while on Saturday and Sunday of each week the highways have a large quota of such cars out on week-end pleasure trips. These practices, the governor in a moment of righteous indignation says, must forthwith cease.

Periodical shake-ups are beneficial, at least temporarily, for the Shearer Is Clubhouse Is Unshaken On Story To D. A.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 30—UP—District Attorney Otto L. Beck of San Jacinto, Calif., today failed to shake the cool, unshaken attitude of Shearer, who is president of the Federated Women's Clubs in Contra Costa county, held formal opening of its new clubhouse.

At a calm ceremony yesterday afternoon the civic Center Club, one of the leading Federated Women's Clubs in the city, is located on Twenty-second street, opposite the Longfellow junior high school.

Bridge Directors To Carry Fight For Four Lane Traffic

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30.—(UPI)—Golden Gate bridge director and his wife today will carry the fight for a four instead of a three-lane highway across the Golden Gate bridge to the San Francisco-Walton approach in Marin county. Governor Frank F. Murphy had said the Federal government it needs no more than a two-lane highway.

New tenor for all traffic, including trucks, will be adopted by the directors. A committee of opinion between 200 U.S. and state highway commissioners, including the director and Earl L. Lewis, director of public works and director of the three-lane highway, will be appointed.

A nationally known engineering firm announced that finances for the highway have been secured from the state and there is prospect of completion of the project within a surprise additional million dollars before the end of the year. The highway was sold to the Dept. of Agriculture.

O'Brien, in a speech before the bridge directors today, charged Kelly's plan for a standard highway, threatening to wreck the entire program of the bridge by "obliterating the San Francisco-Oakland highway." He also proposed a three-lane approach.

The San Francisco-Oakland highway is to be built in two sections, one from the Golden Gate Bridge to the San Francisco-Oakland highway, and another from the San Francisco-Oakland highway to the Golden Gate Bridge.

New Writ Stops Chicago Showing Of Tobacco Road

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—UP—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals late today prevented a scheduled reopening of "Tobacco Road," banned dramatization of Erskine Caldwell's novel of life among Georgia "poor whites" by granting a writ of supersedeas to city officials.

The play was banned by Mayor Edward J. Kelly as "indecent."

Federal Judge William H. Hargan, disagreeing with the mayor, had ordered the play restored to the boards of the Selwyn theater, and its producers had announced the production would open tonight.

WARS ON REDS

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 30.—The American Federation of Labor orders from its president, William Green, today began a nationwide drive to rid the ranks of labor unions of Communists.

"I like you and your wife too much to move in," replied Mrs. Green. "I'm a rotten tenant."

FRIBBLES—Ethel Waters, Helen Morgan's dusky songstress, now at the Winter Garden, can't read a line of music... She has her own musical vocabulary, and started the orchestra leader the other night by requesting something in "piano and rhymin'." It turned out to be "I Want You." Helen, well, former Federal Radio Commissioner, has been re-elected for three years as trustee of the New York Museum of Science and Industry, which will soon occupy quarters in Radio City.

should make our present and future considerably because of its character in helping to pull her hand from his grasp.

"Not exactly," Johnny protestedழously. "It's that I've nothing to offer you, Alma." He flushed and stared off across the room landscape.

"You would be happy if I had come to see you again," Johnny said softly.

"Nix, ma'am," Johnny said soberly. "You aren't fooling your Uncle Jonathan one bit. Now what's it all about?" His hands held her slim shoulders gently and his eyes were serious.

"Oh, I can't tell you, Johnny."

"Then I'll leave this town! I'll go away and build my own happiness! I won't be a sacrifice on the altar of silly, stupid shyness."

"But would you be happy, Alma? That's the question. You don't know the heartache that can come from a violent break with one's family and friends."

Alma turned away from him in exasperation, and started toward the clubhouse. Johnny weakly followed her.

"Well," he said flatly, "we might as well go some place and have breakfast together, anyway."

They drove to Alma's roadster, to the big drug store owned and operated by her father. As they took seats at the soda fountain, a middle-aged clerk — her father's right-hand man — appeared. He looked worried about something.

"Have you seen your father this morning, Miss Alma?" he asked. "We thought he must be playing golf with you, but they said at the club that he wasn't."

"My father, Alma said sharply, "Who did phone the house?"

"No. We've phoned everywhere. Dr. Randolph wanted him — said it was urgent. But we haven't been able to locate him anywhere, and no one has seen him."

"Where's the telephone?" Johnny demanded irritably. "I'll find out about this, Alma. You order breakfast."

Alma ordered, and then went to stand beside Johnny as he called one number after another, in a futile effort to locate Lawson Whittaker.

"YOUR cook says he left the house at about six-thirty," Alma said, between calls. "Drove away in his car. Haven't you any idea where he might have gone?"

"No," said Alma.

She was suddenly filled with a strange apprehension, as she thought back and remembered little things that had made little impression on her at the time but that now took on new significance.

She had noticed that her father had seemed worried and preoccupied lately, and she had urged him to stop working late at night over papers and books that he brought home from the store.

Always, after Sig had said good night to her, he had gone to talk with her father, and she never knew at what late hour their business discussions ended.

"Johnny," she said suddenly. "Let's go to the railroad station — find out from the agent if Dad was there to see Sig off on the early morning train!"

NEW BOTTLES FOR BEER ARE LATEST GADGET

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 30—UP—The 'brewers' big horses may be gone forever, but the glass beer bottle, take it from Wilmot Piel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is here to stay.

Brewers, meeting in convention at Los Angeles last week, found themselves bombarded with pro and con arguments relative to 'canned' beer in paper containers, and beer in other cheap packages.

Today Piel predicted that much of the fuss and furor over package innovations would pass within further notice as brewers adopted a new kind of bottle.

The bottle, squat, light and easily handled, is slightly more than two and one-half inches shorter than the regulation long-necked bottles the public has been using for decades.

Its chief claim to notice is that it is intended for one-time use only. Once its contents have been consumed it can be tossed away. Distributors will not be forced to collect deposits as they now do on most regulation beer bottles, which often go through 20 to 30 refills. Furthermore, it can be packed in much less space than the old type, thus saving transportation costs.

The squat container, Piel said, holds just as much beer as the elongated type of bottle, and he began a thorough sweep on the Atlantic coast.

"I have no thought that it will completely supplant the traditional long-necked beer bottle," Mr. Piel, president of a major Brooklyn brewing company, modestly commented. "But where distance is involved the new type of bottle presents itself as the solution to long-haul sales. It can be thrown into the discard as soon as its contents have been used by the ultimate consumer who can examine its color and can use it with their knowledge that it can be used in safety, as with all bottles."

DAYTON, Oct. 30—UP—Heir of two army air corps officers played a dramatic part today in the rescue of five men from the giant Boeing bombing plane, the largest and fastest aircraft of its type ever built, after had crashed on a take-off and caught fire at Wright Field.

Major Plover Hill of the army air corps lived only a few hours after the accident. He died of a skull fracture and burns.

The 70-foot bomber, with a wing spread of 100 feet, roared down the runway during Government tests, arose falteringly to an altitude of 200 feet, then plunged to earth. Flames leaped from the craft a few seconds after it crashed.

Dictatorship Plan Is Laid To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30—UP—Rep. John Taber, ranking Republican member of the House appropriations committee said tonight President Roosevelt is heading the nation into financial ruin and a dictatorship in which "he desires and expects to be the dictator."

"Socialism, Fascism or Communism and there is little difference among them except in name are the goal of the Roosevelt administration," Taber said. "Unless the people wake up and throw the Roosevelt administration out of office we are going to get into a situation where the Constitution is destroyed, the liberty of the American people is destroyed and business recovery prevented by unbearable taxes."

Declaring he did not advocate new taxes, he listed a sales tax of two percent which might yield $1,500,000,000 and an increase in the gasoline tax from 1 to 10 to 12 cents as levies which the government may be forced to impose to preserve the treasury's credit.
